Presents Our

Winter Seminar

“Interpreting Nutrition and Hydration Related Laboratory Data ”

This program is designed to provide an overview on evaluating and interpreting laboratory values to diagnose nutrition and hydration disorders to include fluid, acid-base and electrolyte balance; anemia related values; protein-status values and disease/organ specific values. The participant will be able to identify the clinical signs and symptoms reflective of abnormal/subnormal levels, evaluate the pharmacokinetic effects of commonly used drugs on nutrition related laboratory values and integrate this knowledge into their current medical nutrition practice.

“Update in the World of Renal Nutrition”

This program is designed to provide an overview of nutrition and renal disease as well as an update on the changes in nutritional approaches for treatment of this population.
