NEEDS ASSESSMENT STATEMENT

The NJLTCLC Annual Conference is intended to educate and update physicians and other healthcare providers in identifying and managing common disorders in the elderly population.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

1. Discuss the cognitive, functional and behavioral manifestations of dementia and provide rational therapy to patients at any stage of their illness
2. Improve effective charting and quality of care in long term care and avoid taking responsibility for non-negligent conduct
3. Define the various types of pain and the barriers to effective pain management near the end of life and understand the components of an effective pain assessment in elderly patients
4. Utilize a multi-disciplinary panel to discuss a complex case of a long term care resident taking inadequate nutrition and hydration and discuss pertinent issues regarding the ethics of withdrawing or withholding artificial nutrition and hydration in frail elderly patients
